FEEDING OUR ELEPHANT

Editor The Northern Tribune,
Dear Sir:

What a source of pride our great Hudson Bay Railway and Terminal must be to our politicians whose brains conceived this vast enterprise, and at a mere cost of fifty-six million dollars, which is added to the staggering load of debt already carried by our tax payers. Built to compete with our Canadian National trans-continental line already operating at a loss, to a port frozen solid for ten months of the year. Where marine insurance on cargoes is four times the rate from the ports of Montreal or Vancouver, for the two months of the year the harbor is open—and with one train running to Churchill every third Friday.

Who pays the dividends (or deficits)? And were insurance taxes lowered to compete with other ocean routes the grain would have to be held in storage for a year, as it is impossible to ship out the current year's crop before the harbor is frozen over.

Fifty per cent. of the cost for four years on the amount sunk in this muskeg-line would build the 160 mile air connecting us with our Canadian National system to Prince Rupert, and cutting our present freight load of 1,300 miles in half by the Mongman Pass route. Prince Rupert with a magnificent all-year open harbor, and with all incoming and outgoing traffic, is the logical market for our Peace River products. With a large terminal elevator standing idle, also a 20,000 ton dock and making this port of our Canadian National Railway system not now paying expenses, one of the busiest lines in Canada. As it will be a both way traffic, with so much of the coast lumber and shingles required for our permanent buildings and with all incoming merchandise related this way.

As Ottawa has been so generous in giving our Eskimo friends around Churchill a three week train service by the "Muskeg Limited," we believe it about time that "Peace River Limited" be put on the map of Canada—when almost our whole Dominion is looking this way for pure seed grain for the 1937 crop.

And whether our elephant be a high-way or railway animal, we can guarantee it will be at least self sustaining. HURSTIC

Legislature Happenings

By T. B. Windross
EDMONTON, April 19. The provincial legislature adjourned Wednesday morning, April 14, with its work incomplete, to meet again not later than June 2. The session up to that date was the most remarkable in the history of Alberta, and in some ways it was the most unusual in any British country where parliamentary institutions are established.

The outstanding feature was the deadlock against the budget on the part of members of the government's own party. It very seldom happens that members of a government party so openly and so persistently attack their own government. The Social Credit ranks did Premier Aberhart and members of his cabinet. So far the Premier has weathered the storm, but the general opinion is that his position has been greatly weakened and the revelation of dissatisfaction with his plans and methods among his own followers is bound to damage his prestige with the masses of his followers.

Our "Insurgent" Social Credit member stated this week: "The Premier has pointed to the fact that two Social Credit bills were on the statutes already before the session began as an excuse for an answer to the criticism that nothing had been done to implement the new economic system, but he has never yet stated why he and his cabinet left those bills there and did nothing with them. For upwards of eighteen months, while they had all the power and authority necessary to do anything, the Premier and his cabinet did absolutely nothing." This critic of the government declared.

On the other hand Premier Aberhart defended his government vigorously and declared he has been moving as rapidly toward his goal of Social Credit as it has been possible to go, greater opposition and difficulties have been met with than were anticipated. Sickens has held back but it is not an excuse for inaction, and his assertion that it will be useless to advance Social Credit in the legislature until they are persuaded it is the best thing for them and are willing to co-operate in implementing it.

And so the controversy in the ranks of Social Credit stands for the present. But it is expected in some quarters that the battle will be joined in more bitter spirit when the legislature re-assembles in the first week of June. One time will tell.

In the closing hours of the session the government's new Social Credit bill was passed through its various stages rapidly and with very little time for consideration. The act enabling the government to extend the period of the moratorium until June was also passed and the bill dealing with debt reduction will be held over until June along with the budget.

Friday night Hon. John Low and Hon. Lucien Maynard left Edmonton for Ottawa, where they will confer with Hon. Charles Dunning, federal Minister of Finance, on matters connected with the provincial financial position. Mr. Low made it plain before leaving he was not approaching Ottawa with any idea of demanding what he wanted. He was attempting to begin negotiations that would, he hoped, settle the outstanding questions under dispute between the two governments.

Arrangements for provision of all necessary seed grain required by farmers have been made and are being carried out, according to Hon. W. N. Chant, Minister of Agriculture. Word received at the department is that seed is being distributed to the province now and that the crop will be in the ground much earlier this year than for some years.

No word has been received from Ottawa yet on the government's proposed $20,000,000 road construction program for the summer. Hon. W. A. Falloway, provincial Minister of Public Works, wrote to Hon. Norman Rogers, federal minister, last week, but as yet no reply has been received from him. The plan is for a fifty-five plan of responsibility for financial costs, or one million for each government. The work will be expended on the main highways throughout the province, the Peace River Highway getting a large share of the work done.

G. P. Musical Festival Notes

Entries for the 1937 Festival have started to come in, according to the secretary, and the indications are that the Festival will be bigger and better this year. The last date for entries is May 5, but the work of those in charge will be eased considerably if those who wish to compete would put entries in as soon as possible. After May 5 a late entry fee of 50 cents is charged.

When entering as a competitor the following points should be remembered:

- (1) Write your name legibly, or "ret" still if the name is at all unusual, print it. This will make it possible for your name to appear on the program spelled correctly.
- (2) Be sure to tell the name and number of the class in which you are competing, and send the correct entry fee with your entry.
- (3) If you go to any school, give the name of it, read it, and the name of the class in which you are competing.
- (4) Entries should be made on the program prescribed for that purpose. Use a separate form for each entry. Any number of these forms may be secured from the secretary.
- (5) In the case of entries where a group of people compete, give the names of all those taking part on the reverse side of the entry form. Otherwise competitors' names cannot be issued, making it necessary to pay admission.

(6) Entries must be in the hands of the secretary, H. L. Vaughan, on or before May 5, 1937.

(7) Read your syllabus carefully.

Winners of Cups or Shields are asked to return them to the secretary not later than May 5.

TONY THE COAN GRINDER
(By Thelma Riley.)

Once upon a time there lived in Canada an Italian grinder, Tony. He was blind. Whenever anybody passed he always had a howl ready for them. Everybody blind him because he was so polite. One night as he was standing on a street corner a man came along and asked him if he would come to his place that evening. When Tony got there he found out that the man wanted to make a deal with him. The man bought Tony's business and gave Tony a large sum of money. When he got the money he went to his own country, Italy.

A ROBBER CAUGHT
(By George Bentley.)

The robbers kept still in their rest for the river. One said: "I will restore the gold tomorrow." Another said: "I will not let the gold go until I retire. That's good news." Just then a shout came, "The Royal Canadian Mounted Police are coming to get your horses." The leader slipped off his horse and was caught. A policeman said: "Time doesn't pay."

VALHALLA CENTRE

ORGANIZATION MEETING HELD BY LUTHERAN LEAGUE

The Lutheran League held their organization meeting the last week, when they met at the home of Mrs. Lenard Neppstad. The officers were filled in the following order: President, Mrs. L. Neppstad; vice-president, Arthur Hallen; secretary, Elmer Melness; treasurer, Olive Fimrite.

The League will continue to take over the service the first Sunday of every month, except the first Sunday in May. This day will be reserved for the head of the Lutheran Church in Canada, Dr. Luvik.

The League will also have a social evening once a month, the first one being the third Wednesday in May.

Program and social committees were elected to carry on these lines of work and entertainment. All of the members are on the membership committee and under the supervision of Rev. Mr. Vikers are trying to make the Lutheran League a real live factor in the Valhalla district.

HELPING HANDS GIRLS HOLD IMPORTANT MEETING

On Saturday night the Helping Hands Girls met at the home of Margaret Turner for one of the most important business meetings of the year—namely that of deciding what projects were going to be worked for during the coming year. Each girl gave a suggestion, some of them being: arched, baptismal font, church clock, furnaces, and jassinet. When the question was brought to a vote the majority of votes were for the installation of a furnace system.

The girls are also considering giving a prize to the local school. Details as to what the prize will be for have not been decided yet, but probably to the pupil who makes the biggest improvement in school work during a certified length of time.

After the business meeting work was distributed among the girls and then lunch was served.

The very pleasant evening was brought to a close by singing several songs, Margaret Turner playing the accompaniment.

MAKES PARENTS A SURPRISE

Mr. H. N. Hanning was heard to say, "It's Lily—No! No! It's Hazel," as the red Creamery truck drove into his yard and let out one passenger.

Hazel Hanson made the trip all the way from her home in Montana on a surprise visit to her parents at the Centre.

The arrival of Hazel means so much to Mrs. Hanning, who has been ill and in bed nearly all winter suffering from high blood pressure and rheumatism. The entire district joins in welcoming Hazel and we share with her the hope that her mother may make marked improvement before the time for Hazel to leave.

GIRLS GREATLY CONCERNED

Much to the consternation of local girls there is a new slogan in Valhalla that reads: "If you want to get married—go to Edmonton." And judging from results, the teachers are getting the results. Two of the local bachelors returned from Edmonton unconvinced in matrimony without causing marked excitement, but when it happened a third time we hear the Valhalla girls held a mob meeting and decided to write Dorothy Dix and ask: "Where has my attraction gone?"

Mr. Ole Vik was the last one to leave the school and shove off on the ship of matrimony. He returned to his farm east of the Centre with the former Esther Lundholm.

L. A. WELL ATTENDED IN SPITE OF BAD ROADS

Mrs. Wm. Pearson and Mrs. Chris Horte were joint hostesses to the local Ladies Aid members. In spite of bad roads, most of the ladies and not a few of the men made their appearance, and between sunrise and rain attempted to get home again, the return trip being rather unfortunate for some.

CREAMERY TRUCK FIRST

The Creamery truck was the first this season to go through to Hythe and made the return trip with no serious trouble. Then on Monday Mr. Swanson took his truck into the Prairie. When trucks and cars begin to move we feel that a reality.

Mrs. Vikers, who has spent the winter in Grande Prairie, is visiting friends in the Valhalla district. Every time she returns she remarks, "There is no place like Valhalla."

TRYING OUT NEW METHOD

Several of the farmers of this district are busy experimenting with the new dust method of grain picking. Mr. D. G. Hanson has purchased a dusting machine, and Mr. Fimrite is seen going from farm to farm, evidently trying to hide his identity behind a gas mask.

CRYSTAL CREEK

COMMUNITY CLUB MEETS

CRYSTAL CREEK, April 20.—The Crystal Creek Community Club held a meeting in the hall on the evening of Saturday, April 17.

A committee was nominated to take charge of the erection of the new hall. Those on the committee are: Mrs. V. Jackson, Mrs. H. Kimble, Mrs. C. Nelson, Mr. J. McDonald, Mr. H. Kimble and Mr. D. Gordon.

The advisability of re-staging the play, "Only Sally Ann," in the Crystal Creek Hall was also discussed. The play received many glowing tributes when staged on March 19, and many have expressed a desire to see it again, while others who were unable to attend the first time are anxious to see it. The club members decided it would be wise to stage the play again, but no definite date has as yet been set. The objective is to swell the funds for the new hall.

No dances or club meetings will be held in the new future until further announcement.

HAND INJURED BY SAW

Gordon Hanson of Valleyview, who has been working for Mr. Bates, had the misfortune to get his hand tangled in the sawing machine. The thumb on his right hand was partly cut off and the first finger gashed.

QUILTING BEE HELD AT MRS. McDONALD'S

Mrs. J. McDonald entertained a few ladies at a quilting bee at her home last Thursday. After the quilting she served a delicious lunch. Those present were: Mrs. M. Clarkson, Mrs. W. Hilder, Mrs. E. Bates, and Miss H. Gordon.

Rev. S. R. Hunt of Clairmont held divine service in the Crystal Creek Hall on Sunday, April 18.

Mrs. Vance spent last week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Nelson of Crystal Creek.

Several cases of measles have been reported, the latest being Edna and Myrtle Wilson and Louise Balson.

Those who attended the play and danced in the Basement Hall last Friday reported having an excellent time and gave full credit to the Basement players on some good acting in their play, "Aunt Samantha Rules the Road."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

HOME-TOWN STREET SCENES

It won't be long now before opportunities to snap pictures like this will be gone.

HOW many of you have as a family possession photographs of scenes about town in the days of horse cars, watering troughs and hitching posts? Not many probably, because those were the days when amateur photographers were few and far between.

Such photographs were usually the work of the professional and those that remain today are mostly in museums and newspaper offices. Most of you without doubt have seen the published reproductions of them and exclaimed in comparing those old-time scenes with the appearance of the city today. The horse cars have been replaced by trolley cars and automobiles. A horse and buggy in the street is a curiosity. There are new and loftier buildings, new names on the store signs, more traffic on street and sidewalk—the same thoroughfares, but quite different in appearance.

These thoughts suggest that the amateur photographer of today, so well equipped as he is to take pictures, will find lasting pleasure in making a photographic record of the changing appearance of the community in which he lives. Pictures that are taken now of street scenes and important buildings will become historic treasures in the homes of those who are now children. Some of the buildings will then be gone, changes in fashion will give a curious appearance to people photographed in present-day attire, and there will be many unforeseen alterations that, years hence, will make pictures of the present scene intensely interesting.

But whether or not you are inspired to take such pictures for their historical interest, they are interesting to the photographer.

John van Gulder.

scenes and "life and action" incidents about the city is one of the most interesting phases of outdoor picture-taking. To be successful with these pictures, bear in mind that you will have to work quickly and quietly, attracting as little attention as possible where people are to be included and you must be able to take in an interesting situation at a glance.

The ability to level your camera quickly and accurately is particularly important, as in most cases the architecture of surrounding buildings will show, and, if the camera is not level, the lines will be anything but pleasing.

The view-point of the camera is also important. Many pictures of street scenes show that its position was too low. Often a good shot of a busy street can be made from the steps of some public building. Interesting and odd views are obtained from windows of high buildings, pointing the camera downward.

When taking streets from the curb hold the camera as high as you can. Cameras with eye-level finders are especially convenient for this kind of work. Don't take pictures when a fast-moving vehicle is very near unless your camera is equipped with a very fast shutter and you want a picture of the vehicle as the principal subject.

There is hardly a city which does not afford camera owners subjects possessing interesting features from the structural and historical points of view. In most architectural work full detail is essential, in which case the lens should be stopped down to the smallest opening and used with the slowest possible shutter speed.

John van Gulder.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

The story of our times is being told for the next generation by amateur photographers who take and preserve simple scenes of present-day life, such as this.

DID it ever occur to you that as the owner of an amateur camera you are blessed with the means of making a valuable and truly significant record of the times in which you live? Magazine, newspaper, newsreel and other professional photographers are doing just that every day and a vast store of pictorial history is accumulating.

Thanks to the progress and spread of photography our descendants are going to know much more about the way we lived and acted than we know of the way our great-grandfathers did. Through these millions of photographs of life and action now being taken our descendants will possess visual evidence of the things we did, how we dressed, how life went on in city and country. Contrast the advantage they will have over this generation which has to rely upon the descriptions of writers and the work of artists for its understanding of life and action prior to the introduction of photography scarcely more than two generations ago. How accurate the work of writers and artists may be, it cannot equal the reality and truthfulness of photography.

We amateur photographers, now millions strong in every country, are making a tremendous contribution to this photographic record of our times. Few of us, however, are doing it by design. Most of us take pictures for the present amusement of ourselves, families and friends with no thought to their value and interest to our children's children. Too few of us take pains to preserve the pictures we take.

Well, what do you say to the idea of becoming a photographic historian for the benefit of your own posterity? This you can do effectively even on a small scale. It simply means making a collection of pictures, taken by yourself, best representing the life, customs, dress and activities of the present day and placing them in a special album to keep and hand down as a family possession. Some of these pictures will seem commonplace now but as interesting and valuable forty or fifty years hence as those of the "gay nineties" are to us.

Select subjects which in your judgment are most typical of the current scene. Certainly you should not neglect to include your own home life, street scenes and other views about your changing city, the homes of the rich and the homes of the poor, life in the country and present types of automobiles, airplanes, railroad trains and other things in general use which today speed modern life and tomorrow will be obsolete.

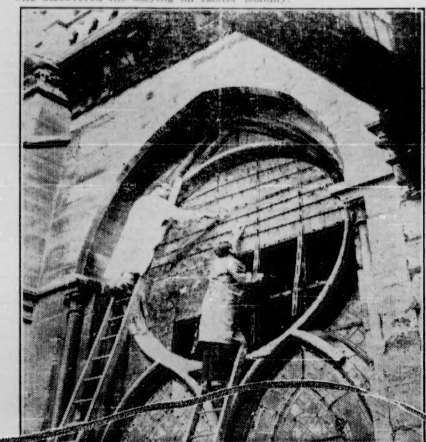

You should not fail to include off-guard snapshots of people doing things illustrative of common life—what the artists call genre pictures. Make your camera your companion especially in traveling and be ready for them. For example, a shot out of your car window of a scene on the platform of a railroad station may seem ordinary enough today but it is a snapshot of common life. Years hence this picture will be a curiosity. The modern scene is constantly changing. There is no other medium than photographs which can show so truly after a lapse of years what these changes have been.

John van Gulder.
